

FRIDAY EVENING, FEB. 8, 1895.

FROM WASHINGTON.

(Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—The President notified Congress to-day that he had concluded arrangements for the sale of sixty-two million gold bonds to replenish the gold reserve. The bonds bear interest at 3½ per cent. The option reserved to the government to substitute 3 per cent. bonds if Congress authorizes it.

There is less talk to-day about an extra session of Congress. Leading Democrats this morning agree unanimously that when Congress adjourns on March fourth, it will be not to reassemble before December.

The U. S. consul at Cheukiang cables that the report that the officers of the Concord were captured by Chinese is untrue.

On account of the storm no postal cars went out this morning.

The Howgate trial was postponed to day on account of the storm.

The President has just sent to Congress an important message on the subject of national finances, informing Congress of his determination to issue to-day more four per cent. bonds, and his reasons therefor. The President in his message states that exigencies of the moment prompt the issuance of these bonds for purposes of replenishing the gold reserve. Arrangements have therefore been made for the sale of sixty-two million four hundred thousand four per cent. bonds, one half to foreign parties and the other half to parties in this country, by which sale the treasury will receive sixty-five million dollars in gold. This, the President says, is a more favorable and more satisfactory arrangement than any of a similar nature heretofore made.

The latest telegram from Minister Willis, at Honolulu, sent to Congress to-day by the President says the court martial tried 38 cases. There are two hundred more to try. Gulek, the former minister, and Seward, minister and major in the federal army, both Americans, and Richards, an Englishman, were sentenced to death and T. B. Walker, formerly of the U. S. Army, to imprisonment for life and five thousand dollars fine. Other sentences, not yet disclosed, but probably death, were pronounced. Secretary Gresham instructs Mr. Willis that if the Americans are condemned by military tribunals not for actual participation, but for complicity only, or if condemned for actual participation without a fair opportunity for defense, to demand delay for investigation.

NABBED AS HE HUGGED HER.—In order to capture a Yale law student who "jumped his bail" at New Haven, Conn., Eugene Rosenthal, his bondsman, turned detective and captured the fugitive after the latter had embraced his sweetheart at Broad Street station recently. The student is Nicholas Spielberger, whose home is in Brooklyn. He resided while at Yale in the house of a Mr. Newman, and made love to his host's 16-year-old daughter, Sarah Newman. The father of the girl finally had Spielberger arrested on the charge of betraying the girl, and he is under indictment for the offense. While out on bail Spielberger shook the dust of New Haven from his feet. Rosenthal, who was formerly an actor, thereupon provided himself with an extenuating wardrobe, and disguised alternately as a Chinaman, a beggar, and a negro and a messenger boy—the latter disguise being made possible by Rosenthal's small stature—followed him. By letter Spielberger had finally managed to get the Newman girl to meet him. They met in this city, a few days ago, Rosenthal being there at the time, dressed as a beggar. The latter pointed the fugitive to reserve policeman McKean, who escorted Spielberger to the Central Police Station.—Philadelphia Record.

BETRAYED.—The passengers on the 5 o'clock express from Washington on Wednesday were treated to an amusing little comedy. When the train stopped at Wilmington, Del., it was boarded by a young farmer in all the glory of new straw clothes and a young woman in a blue traveling suit. The couple took seats in one of the day coaches near the door and attracted no particular attention. A moment later, however, the door opened and a boy of about fifteen years threw a double handful of rice over the couple and cried, "Good luck to you!" The bride blushed, and the bridegroom's face wore a mingled look of anger and embarrassment. The boy had hastily disappeared from the door, and a moment later the train was under way again. The passengers were still uttering when the door opened again and the boy who had thrown the rice came in with a second look on his face. "The train started before I knew it," he said to the groom, "and they wouldn't let me off." Chester was the next stop and the groom was obliged to pay the boy's fare to that station.—Philadelphia Record.

DISCOVERY IN JERUSALEM.—Dr. Bliss and Herr von Schick, of the Palestine Exploration Fund, writes that the iron-bound door of Nebi Daud, which had remained open against the wall for a number of years, having recently been blown down during a severe storm, there was discovered on one of the stones behind it an inscription which seems not to have been noticed before. It is in Latin, and is a votive tablet to Jupiter on behalf of the welfare and greatness of the Emperor Trajan and the Roman people, erected by the Third Legion, which takes us back to the interval between the destruction by Titus and the founding of Aelia Capitolina. It was partly concealed by plaster, and may have been entirely covered when the door was last opened and shut, which may account for its having been unnoticed. It is built into the wall about fifteen feet above the ground. Roman inscriptions are very rare in Jerusalem, and this discovery is therefore of exceptional interest.—London Paper.

ARKANSAS PEOPLE WORRIED BY BEASTS.—Wild beasts are making existence miserable for inhabitants along the Saline and Canadian bottoms of Arkansas. The continued snow drives the bears and panthers from their hiding places. A report from Danville, Yell county, is to the effect that a bear ran off with the four-year-old child of David Baker, a farmer living near that place, early Tuesday morning, while Mrs. Baker was milking. A statement comes from Hot Springs that the farmers residing along the Saline river bottom are losing hundreds of cattle and hogs, while several people have narrowly escaped being killed by wild beasts in the same neighborhood.

During the progress of the carnival at Falls Church Wednesday the horse of Mr. George Thorne became unmanageable and ran away, running over and severely injuring Mrs. Chas. Herbert, of this city. She was able, however, to be removed to her home later in the day.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Mrs. White, of Ashland, Ky., who is sixty-nine years of age, celebrated the late election by giving birth to a son, who will be called William McKinley White.

Three men left Miles City, Mont., Wednesday in a sleigh for a ranch several miles distant. They became lost in the blinding storm and late in the afternoon one of them returned on foot. He thinks his companions were frozen to death.

A City of Mexico special says that the secretary of foreign relations in the Mexican cabinet has officially denied the statement that Guatemala has acceded to the demands of Mexico. "But we are still hopeful that war may finally be averted," said the minister.

Two masked men entered the grocery store of Frank B. Westgate in Cleveland Wednesday night and ordered the proprietor and a customer to throw up their hands. While one of the men was rifling the money drawer Westgate attacked him with a club. The other burglar shot the grocer fatally in the back of the head and both escaped.

County Affairs.

To the Editor of the Alexandria Gazette.—I noticed in your issue of February 2d a communication, signed "Justice," in which the writer attempted to score Judge Chichester for refusing to grant license for the sale of liquor in this county. Among other things he says that the people of this county had settled the matter so far as they were concerned by voting at the polls for license, and that Judge Chichester, in refusing to grant the license, was acting contrary to the will of the people. In making the statement that the voters at a recent election decided in favor of license "Justice" is either ignorant of the true state of affairs or deliberately misrepresents the situation. In the spring of 1883 the people of the county voted upon the question of license or no license as follows: Jefferson and Arlington districts voting against license and Washington district for license. Two years later the people did not vote upon the question, as they were of the opinion that the law would remain in force until voted down. A number of liquor sellers then applied for license on the ground that the prohibition held good but two years. They were successful and the sale of liquor was once more legalized. A few years later, upon the protest of a number of the leading citizens, all applications for license but two, one at Chain bridge and one at Rosslyn, were rejected. When the time came to license these places again protests were made and Judge Chichester refused them or any one else license to sell liquor in the county. The saloon keepers appealed to Judge Keith, who affirmed the decision of Judge Chichester. Near the close of the last Legislature the excise law was passed, in spite of the protests of reputable citizens—a law designed to meet the wishes of all who wish to dispense liquor, whether their character is good or bad. Saloons are now more numerous than ever before, and a perusal of the court proceedings will convince even a disinterested person that disorder and murder followed as a natural consequence. The remarks of Judge Chichester have been received with approval by law-abiding citizens all over the county, the general opinion being that his language was more than severe.

ANDREW SCHLEVGT.

Alexandria county, Feb. 7.

DR. RADER, DESPERADO, KILLED.—Dr. J. E. Rader, a mountain desperado, met death at the hands of a woman in Breathitt county, Ky., Tuesday night about four miles from Jackson, Ky. Tuesday morning his dead body was found in the house of Widow Co. McQuinn. There were two bullet holes through his heart. The widow said she did the shooting, but would give no reason for it. There were two bullet holes in the bedclothes, indicating that he was shot in bed. Investigation developed the fact that there was a row in which another man figured. Mr. McQuinn gave himself up to Sheriff Cope and was placed in jail.

Dr. Rader came of a well-to-do mountain family. He settled as a physician in Jackson, the county seat of Breathitt county, and built up a good practice. He also conducted a drug store, and in a few years was worth several thousand dollars. About six years ago Dick Rader, his brother, was brutally murdered by John Hurst, who shot him down when he was unarmed. This made a feud of the doctor, and he determined to avenge his brother's death, but Hurst was sent to the penitentiary for sixteen years.

Two years ago Hurst was pardoned by Lieut. Gov. Ajord while Gov. Brown was away, and then Doc Rader again determined to kill him. Hurst was afraid to go back to the mountains and settled in Lexington, where he kept a grocery store. Rader hunted him for months, and when he finally found him went to Lexington, bought a new revolver, and just at dusk went to Hurst's place of business and emptied his pistol into Hurst's body, nearly every bullet producing what the doctors thought a fatal wound. After lying at death's door for several months Hurst got well and Rader was convicted and sent to the penitentiary for two years. He was pardoned last fall.

A few days before Rader's release his drug store stock and household furniture at Jackson were destroyed by fire. When he got home he had to borrow money to buy medicine with which to resume his practice. As soon as Hurst learned that Rader had been pardoned he became almost demented through fear. Rader on his way to the penitentiary had sworn he would kill Hurst if it took him a lifetime to do it.

THE ASSEMBLY'S HOME AND SCHOOL. At a meeting of the board of trustees of this institution, held in Fredericksburg Tuesday last, matters of importance bearing upon the efficient conduct and the enlargement of the operations of this interesting benevolent enterprise were acted upon. The intelligent energy which has been exhibited by this board and by their representative, Rev. A. P. Saunders, formerly of Alexandria, has already accomplished results most beneficial to Fredericksburg, viz: The establishment of the collegiate institute, which affords a complete collegiate education at very moderate cost, and the bringing into Fredericksburg of 41 orphan children of deceased ministers who are cared for in the home. The collegiate institute is educating this session 213 pupils, among whom are many youths sent from the adjacent counties and from other States. Rev. Mr. Rice, of this city, is one of the trustees.

VIRGINIA NEWS.

"Aunt" Lizzie Rector, aged 109 years, died at her home, near Warrenton, on Thursday last. She belonged to a family of Smiths in Rappahannock county, who kept a register of the births of their slaves, so her age is well authenticated.

As a freight train was going into a switch at the curve tank at Roanoke Wednesday night the engine blew up. Fireman Dear Henry was instantly killed, and Engineer John King died in an hour. He was blown to the river bank some distance and his body was not found for thirty-five minutes. Both men resided in Roanoke. The fireman was a new man on his second trip.

The Fredericksburg Lancers: "Our correspondent from King George says that Col. R. J. Washington, of Westmoreland, will not again be a candidate for the Senate from Westmoreland. Colonel Washington has made a useful and faithful Senator. No doubt the people of that Senatorial district will instinctively turn to Hon. John E. Mason to represent them. Mr. Mason has three times served in the House of Delegates most acceptably from Stafford and King George."

Court of Appeals Yesterday.—The most interesting opinion handed down yesterday in the Court of Appeals was that of Bell, &c., vs. the Farmville and Powhatan Railroad Company from the Circuit Court of Petersburg.

This case involves the validity of the Powhatan county bonds issued in payment of stock in the Farmville and Powhatan Railroad Company. It was contended by the taxpayers that the removal of the case from the Circuit Court of Powhatan to the Circuit Court of Chesterfield and Petersburg was irregular and that the latter court had no right to try the case in the absence of certified abstracts of the records of Powhatan and Chesterfield orders. The Court of Appeals holds that the docketing of the case by consent in Petersburg gave the court there the right to proceed with the case without those certified abstracts. The court further decides, Judge Harrison dissenting, that the act of 1883 authorizing the issue of coupon bonds validated the conditional bonds and cured any defects existing in the proceedings leading up to their issue. None of the questions as to the regularity of these proceedings was passed on, the court holding, Judge Harrison dissenting, that this question was conclusive of the case. The judgment of the Circuit Court of Petersburg is affirmed. Judge Harrison delivered a positive dissenting opinion.

Another interesting opinion was handed down by Judge Harrison in the case of Carnal vs. Lynch et al. from the Chancery Court of Richmond. It appears that Benjamin Sutton gave to his two grandsons, W. M. Lynch and Chas. G. Lynch, house and lot corner Grace and Jefferson streets, in Richmond, for their lives, with cross remainders to their children and, in the event of the death of both without issue, the property was to pass to their sister, Mollie A. Lynch, or her issue. Chas. G. Lynch died leaving two children, who are now the fee simple owners of the property, life tenant in one moiety of the property, filed a bill in chancery for the sale of this property for partition. The property was sold by order of the court on an upset bid to J. D. Carnal for $11,575. The court confirmed the sale but reserved to the purchaser leave to have the title examined within a reasonable time. Counsel for the purchaser made two objections to the title which the lower court overruled. The first was that Wm. M. Lynch being only a life tenant in one moiety of the land, had no power in law to maintain a suit for partition. The court argues this point at length, but affirms the judgment of the lower court. The second objection was that the ground was advertised as fronting 67 feet 11 inches on Grace street, when as a matter of fact it fronted on that street only 64 feet 7 inches, the difference, 2 feet 5½ inches, being embraced in a part of Jefferson street. The court says that a plot of this property distinctly showing the encroachment on Jefferson street was at the auctioneer's office where the purchaser had every opportunity of seeing it and that he did not do so was his own fault. The judgment of the lower court is affirmed.

Roanoke Brick and Lime Co. vs. Simmons, from Circuit Court of city of Roanoke, affirmed. Judge Keith delivering opinion.

Overly vs. Walsh, appeal refused.

Brovey vs. Bedford City Land and Improvement Co., rehearing denied.

Johnson's administrator vs. Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Co. Further argued and submitted.

Shipman vs. Fletcher, argued by Hon. W. Willoughby for appellant. This case comes from the Circuit Court of Alexandria, and was tried before President Keith. There were nearly three thousand printed pages in the records and briefs, and it is thought they will occupy about four full days of the court. Judge W. Willoughby and Hon. John W. Daniel are counsel for the appellant, and Messrs. Edmund Burke and A. W. Armstrong and Judge Waller R. Staples represent the appellees. There is quite a large sum involved. [Yesterday evening Mr. J. S. Beach, clerk of the Corporation Court, received a telegram from Senator Daniel in Richmond requesting him to send all the papers in the case. The papers were at once sent by express.]

RICHMOND MARKET, Feb. 8.—The offerings of grain are light and the market is dull, while prices show but little change. We quote: Flour $1.75 to $1.80; Wheat 52 to 53; Corn 44 to 45; Oats 35 to 36; Eggs 25 to
